- ii) Fill in the blanks. 1
 - 1) He took me to his room over the
 - 2) It easy to rob a

He took me to his room over the Jumna Sweet Shop and told me I could sleep on the balcony. But the meal I cooked that night must have been terrible because Anil gave it to a stray dog and told me to be off. But I just hung around, smiling in my most appealing way. And he couldn't help laughing

Later, he patted me on the head and said never mind, he'd teach me to cook. He also taught me to write my name and said he would soon teach me to write whole sentences and to add numbers. I was grateful. I knew that once I could write like an educated man there would be no limit to what I could achieve.

It was quite pleasant working for Anil. I made the tea in the morning and then would take my time buying the day's supplies, usually making a profit of about a rupee a day. I think he knew I made a little money this way but he did not seem to mind.

Anil made money by fits and starts. He would borrow one week, lend the next. He kept worrying about his next cheque, but as soon as it arrived he would go out and celebrate. T seems he wrote for magazines- a queer way to make a living!

One evening he come home with a small bundle of notes, saying he had just sold a boon to a publisher at night I saw him tuck the money under the mattress.

I had been working for Anil for almost a month and apart from cheating on the shopping had not done anything in my line of work. I had every opportunity for doing so. Anil had given me a key to the door. And I could come and go as I pleased he was the most trusting person I had ever met.

And that is why it was so difficult to rob him. It's easy to rob a greedy man, because he can afford to be robbed; but it's difficult to rob a careless man sometimes he doesn't even notice he's been robbed and that takes all the pleasure out of the work

Well it's time I did some real work, I told myself; I'm out of practice. And if I don't take the money. His ll only waste it on his friend's. After all, he doesn't even pay me.

Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms.

Then the whining schoolboy, with his satchel

And shining morning face, creeping like snail

Unwillingly to school and then the lover,
Sighing like furnace, with a woeful ballad

Jealous in honor, sudden and quick in quarrel,
Seeking the bubble reputation

Our mind has unlimited reserves of energy. When we decide to do anything the mind at once releases energy and we perform with the aid of this energy. The mind is the prime source of energy if we choose to do an easy task, then the mind will release less amount of energy and if we decide to do some difficult or great task, then the mind will release greater amount of energy.

If you are an easy going person then you are bound to receive less energy from your mind and the result is that your personality too becomes weak.
